TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Fairfaxian Walks Overboard at the Foot of Cameron Street and is Exhausted When Rescued.

Samuel Dove, aged 64 years, of Fairfax county, had a narrow escape from drowning about nine o'clock last night. He had come to Alexandria for the purpose of visiting a relative, and after having strolled about the streets in ineffectual attempts to locate his relative, he inquired of a passerby the street upon which the object of his search resided. He was either pointed to the wrong direction or he misunderstood the person who attempted to direct him, and later found himself at the foot of Cameron street virtually lost. It was while feeling his way at this point that he stumbled over the wharf log into the dock. His cries attracted the attention of Special Officer Robey who hastened to his aid. Two colored men reached the scene simultaneously and they drew Dove from the water as quickly as possible and hastened him to the station house. The officers on duty telephoned to Dr. Warfield for directions in the case, and the doctor ordered the man to be denuded, wrapped in blankets and placed in the Alexandria Hospital as soon as possible. Officer Gill, assisted by Elton K. Shiao, soon took off Dove's clothes, wrapped him in blankets and placing him in a cab accompanied him to the hospital. Dove was apparently on the road to recovery today.

PROMISED TO LEAVE THE CITY.

Some excitement was caused in the vicinity of Cameron and Washington streets yesterday afternoon by the difficulty experienced by Officer Kerns in getting a drunken man to the station house. The officer found John McElroy, a Scotchman by birth, a glass-blower by occupation and a Spanish war veteran, helplessly drunk and, according to the evidence of the officer in the Police Court this morning, disposed to resist him. McElroy caught hold of the officer's coat, tearing the garment, and Kerns alleged he was compelled to use his baton on his fingers to make him relax his grip. The prisoner said he had been an inmate of the Soldiers' Home in Washington and had worked at glass factories in Alexandria at times during the past twelve years. He further stated that he was a freeman on an American man-of-war during the Spanish American conflict and his experience had left him with epilepsy. Justice Caton dismissed the prisoner with the understanding that he would return to Washington.
